Equalities and Discrimination

St David's College has a strong Christian ethos as set out in our trust documents (which can be seen on the Governors Page of the School website). At the heart of our Christian values, is our aim of providing equality of opportunity and actively encouraging both pupils and staff to achieve their best, receive acknowledgement for their successes and at all times build self-esteem, the crucial foundation for personal achievement. The College provides equality of opportunity and an environment free from discrimination pursuant to our Christian ethos, which is parallel to fundamental British values and laws.

The "family atmosphere" deliberately cultivated is primarily aimed at providing a feeling of security for students, many of whom have experienced a strong sense of failure and rejection in previous educational institutions. All staff are encouraged to feel a sense of ownership in the College and thus play their part in the decision-making process.

Should difficulties arise, individual staff members have a choice of routes to express their concerns and can do so in complete confidence. If they feel that the matter cannot be resolved by the Head of Department, they may speak to any member of SMT. The Chaplain is an obvious choice since his guarantee of confidentiality is universally recognised through his ordained status. Any reports of discrimination or bullying towards staff would be investigated by the Headteacher (or his Deputy in his absence), the Board of Governors informed and, should disciplinary action be necessary, it would be subject to the approval of the Governors.

Should a member of staff have a complaint against the Headteacher, this should be reported to the Bursar, who is also Clerk to the Governors and appointed directly by the Governors. Any inquiry and subsequent disciplinary action would be in the hands of the Board of Governors.

Under the Equality Act 2010, St David's will not discriminate against disabled people applying for jobs, or against existing disabled staff. It is unlawful discrimination for an employer to treat a person less favourably than others for a reason to do with disability unless the treatment can be justified by the employer. The Act also imposes a duty on employers to make reasonable adjustments if the premises or employment arrangements substantially disadvantage a disabled person compared with a non-disabled person. Examples of adjustments might be the installation of a ramp for an employee who uses a wheelchair. Holding meetings on the ground floor rather than on the first floor. Displaying staff notices in large print, Braille or on audiotape for someone with a visual impairment.

Complaints about disability discrimination in education may be heard by the Special Educational Needs Tribunal for Wales (SENTW). SENTW will be able to order such remedy as it sees fit except financial compensation.

We believe this policy should be a working document that is fit for purpose, represents the school ethos, enables consistency and quality across the school and is related to the following legislation:

- Human Rights Act 1998
- Gender Recognition Act 2004
- Equality Act 2010
- The Independent School Standards 2003
- National Minimum Standards for Boarding Schools

We understand that the Equality Act 2010 combines and builds upon the existing legislation covering discrimination and promotion of equality of opportunity.

We recognise that this Act brings together into one Act those areas now known as 'protected characteristics' that qualify for protection from discrimination such as age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation.

We believe that everyone has the right to be treated with dignity and respect. We are opposed to any direct or indirect discrimination and will operate the College in accordance with the law minimise the distress and disruption to pupils and school personnel who hold a protected characteristic.

We all have a responsibility to ensure equality permeates in to all aspects of school life and want everyone connected with this school to feel safe, secure, valued and of equal worth.

We have high expectations of all pupils from across the ability range and aim to provide them with every opportunity to succeed with the highest standards of teaching and learning within a curriculum that is broad, balanced, differentiated, relevant and exciting. We will monitor the progress of all pupils in order for them to achieve their expected targets.

We are opposed to any member of the school personnel or others connected with the school being victimised, harassed or bullied by another based on assumptions about their status in the afore mentioned protected characteristics or on any other grounds including their political affiliation.
